

Dear Fry Construction,

I wanted to take a minute and comment on how fortunate we were to have Fry Construction selected as the General Contractor for our extensive remodel work completed at our Ft. Worth headquarters for Lhoist North America.

What started off as a small remodel project for a few offices, grew into an extensive “make over” of our main corporate campus, which includes five buildings and 150 employees. The remodel required our employees to be relocated off the main campus to a nearby bank building, while the remodeling job could be completed.

Fry Construction has done a superb job of handling all of the details of the remodeling job, including the countless “changes” that have been necessary along the way. The Superintendent has done an outstanding job of managing the busy subcontractors who have been in and out of each of our buildings. He was always professional in the way that he handled the project management, and sensitive to our unique without disrupting our employees during the remodeling project.

Our Fry Construction Superintendent has taken care to make sure that all of our unique needs and requests were processed in a timely and professional manner. He went above and beyond the call of duty to accommodate our schedule and our needs.

The architect did a great job of providing us with detailed plans throughout the project so that we could make good decisions along the way.

As the Facility Manager, I could not have asked for a better working relationship with a General Contractor as Fry Construction, and especially with the Superintendent and Architect who made this extensive corporate remodeling project a tremendous success.

I would highly recommend Fry Construction to other companies who need remodeling and/or construction of a new or modifications to existing additions in a facility.

We will use Fry Construction for all of our future needs.

We are a very satisfied client.

Sincerely,

Rick Adams
